Frequently asked questions on the KCDB web platform

QUESTION 1 I am a TC Chair and have noticed in my Back Office for user accounts that there are user accounts for writers and institutes with the e-mail address extension “kcdb.fr”. Who uses these?

ANSWER 1 These generic writer accounts were created for the migration of data from the former to the present database. Each CMC has an “owner” represented by the last person that has updated, or created, a CMC. All CMCs belong initially to this generic user account. We do not recommend using these accounts and they cannot be deleted for technical reasons.

QUESTION 2 Is there a website where I practice writing and reviewing CMCs but which has no consequences for the official database?

ANSWER 2 A separate web platform dedicated to this kind of testing is accessible. Please contact your TC Chair for information.
